CONFERENCE ON SUSTAINABLE SECURITY & PEACE IN AFRICA

CALL FOR PAPERS

THEME: Moving Africa Towards Sustainable Security & Peace.

DATES: 25th -26th May, 2017.

VENUE: Tangaza University College, Kenya

PREAMBLE:

The significance of the conference is based on the reality within the African continent, which is affected by perennial and new conflicts. The conflicts probe the need for sustainable peace and development. Sustainable peace and security is ever urgent for the development of the continent. There are many peace building efforts taking place across the continent, yet we sadly note an increase in violent conflicts that claim lives of innocent people and hinder the development of Africa. The conference aims at bringing together practitioners to discuss current major issues in peace and security, and share experiences from the field. It seeks to create an alliance of good practices for peace in Africa; to explore how successful peace initiatives can be adapted in other places. The conference also aims to design a methodology for sustainable security and peace, focusing on what is working, explore challenges, contributions made through different initiatives and how to improve on existing security and peace building strategies.

Objectives of the Conference

- i) To engage peace practitioners and academia in security and peace building initiatives.
- ii) To create an alliance for successful peace practices in the African continent.
